OPEN SOCIETY PROGRAM ON INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM

WHAT WE DO

The Open Society Program on Independent Journalism supports creative, talented, and open-minded groups, networks or media organizations producing verifiable, trustworthy information on any platform, especially in the places where such content is not only scarce but also difficult to produce.

We are interested in the development of new ideas, breaking new ground and taking advantage of the digital revolution in the production of news. We wish to secure a free and safe environment, focusing on activities that protect journalists, citizens practicing journalism and sources or information from physical and legal harassment. We aim to improve global and regional connections, facilitate knowledge circulation, exchange ideas and learn from various contexts.
